Work programme for 2026-2027 for Regulation (EU) 2021/693 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 28 April 2021 establishing the Justice programme and repealing Regulation (EU) No 1382/2013

1. INTRODUCTION

Pursuant to Article 3(1) of Regulation (EU) 2021/693<sup>1</sup>, the general objective of the Justice programme is to contribute to the further development of a European area of justice based on the rule of law, on mutual recognition and mutual trust, and judicial cooperation, thereby also strengthening democracy, the rule of law and the protection of fundamental rights.

As set out in Article 3(2) of Regulation (EU) 2021/693, the Justice programme has the following specific objectives:

- (a) to facilitate and support judicial cooperation in civil and criminal matters, and to promote the rule of law and the independence and impartiality of the judiciary, including through supporting the efforts to improve the effectiveness of national justice systems and the effective enforcement of decisions;
- (b) to support and promote judicial training, with a view to fostering a common legal and judicial culture, as well as a culture based on the rule of law and to support and promote the consistent and effective implementation of the Union legal instruments that are relevant in the context of the Programme;
- (c) to facilitate effective and non-discriminatory access to justice for all, and effective remedy, including by electronic means (e-Justice), by promoting efficient civil and criminal procedures and by promoting and supporting the rights of all victims of crime as well as the procedural rights of suspects and accused persons in criminal proceedings.

The Justice programme contributes to the implementation of key EU legislation that forms part of the EU's comprehensive response to both persistent and emerging challenges.

This multiannual work programme covers the two final years of the current 2021-2027 Multiannual Financial Framework (MFF) and takes into consideration recent geo-political developments, which have, among other things, underlined the need for a rapid digitalisation of EU Member States' justice systems.

Building on the policy initiatives supported under the 2023-2025 work programme, the 2026-2027 work programme will continue to focus on the priorities identified under its three specific objectives (judicial cooperation, judicial training and access to justice), by supporting also the development and implementation of new EU policy strategies and legislative initiatives in these fields. The priorities listed in the work programme are broadly defined to keep them as flexible as possible to allow the Programme to tackle new emerging challenges and needs, thus also contributing to make the justice systems more resilient

Rule of law

The rule of law is an essential safeguard for the well-functioning of our democracies, the protection of individual rights, and hence for the vitality and prosperity of our societies and economies. The importance of the rule of law was emphasised by President von der Leyen in her ‘Political guidelines for the next European Commission 2024-2029’<sup>2</sup>: ‘Europe’s democracy and economy rely on the rule of law. It makes our society work and ensures that rights are defended, corruption is punished, and contracts are enforced. Strengthening the rule of law will be our daily work and duty. Respect of the rule of law is – and will be – a must for EU funds’. Since 2020 the Commission has established a comprehensive annual Rule of Law Cycle<sup>3</sup> to strengthen its monitoring of the situation in the Member States. The Rule of Law Cycle acts as a preventive tool, promoting dialogue and joint awareness of rule-of-law issues. At the centre of the cycle is the annual Rule of Law Report<sup>4</sup>, which provides a summary of significant developments – both positive and negative – in all Member States and in the Union as a whole. In its Communication of 17 July 2019 on Strengthening the rule of law within the Union – A blueprint for action<sup>5</sup>, the Commission underlined that the European project relies on respect for the rule of law in all Member States. Therefore, judicial networks, legal professionals, justice practitioners and civil society organisations have a crucial role in helping to promote and uphold the rule of law, effectively monitor the rule-of-law situation on the ground and further strengthen the rule-of-law culture by promoting rule-of-law standards and educational activities for the general public.

Moreover, the 2025 EU Competitiveness Compass<sup>6</sup> and the accompanying 2025 Annual Single Market and Competitiveness Report<sup>7</sup> recall that respect for the rule of law is central also to the functioning of the Single Market, providing a stable operating environment that gives the EU and its Member States a global competitive edge. Well-functioning and fully independent justice systems can have a positive impact on investment and are key for investment protection, thus contributing to productivity and competitiveness. The 2025 Communication to the European Semester Spring Package<sup>8</sup> also emphasises the respect for the rule of law, in particular independent, quality and efficient justice systems, as key determinants of a business environment that fosters investment and innovation. Since 2013, the European Commission has published the EU Justice Scoreboard<sup>9</sup>, an annual comparative information tool aiming to assist the EU and help Member States make their national justice systems more effective. It does so by providing objective, reliable and comparable data on a number of indicators relevant to the assessment of (i) the efficiency, (ii) the quality and (iii) the independence of the Member States’ justice systems. It is key to continue developing and improving both national and EU tools for collecting this type of information. In addition to the data collected from national justice systems, information should also be gathered from judicial networks, legal professionals, justice practitioners and civil society organisations on how the justice systems work in practice (including the sharing of best practices) and how best to respond to and address potential challenges to their independence, quality and efficiency.

Judicial cooperation

Judicial cooperation in civil and criminal matters still faces various obstacles and access to justice remains difficult in some cases. Reinforcing mutual trust in other Member States' judicial systems remains crucial as it is the foundation for effective mutual recognition and judicial cooperation. There is also a need to simplify and digitalise communications, facilitate access to procedures and legal information and strengthen the connection to and between national systems in a cross-border context.

It is therefore a key priority to continue to build mutual trust and to ensure the correct application and enforcement of the existing Union acquis on judicial cooperation in civil and criminal matters.

In the area of civil justice, part of the Union acquis has been revised in the past years to make it more effective and better adapted to citizens' and practitioners' needs. Further reviews of the acquis as well as new initiatives may become necessary in the future to complement the existing framework, continue to build mutual trust and make civil justice more efficient, faster and more economical. To simplify and modernise the current framework, it is also necessary to support key actors through action and operating grants. The European Judicial Network in Civil and Commercial Matters (EJN civil) plays a fundamental role in the implementation and effective application of Union instruments in the area of civil justice, including in the context of digitalisation. This was highlighted in the 2024 strategic guidelines for legislative and operational planning within the Area of Freedom, Security and Justice<sup>10</sup> as well as in the 2024 Council conclusions on competitiveness through civil justice, which also called for financial support to national networks.

In this respect, a first call for proposals was launched in 2018 for national networks in the area of civil justice cooperation, and continued funding must be ensured to allow members of the EJN<sup>11</sup> to establish, develop and strengthen national judicial cooperation networks. The objective of the funding is twofold: setting up national judicial cooperation networks in Member States that currently do not have any and strengthening the functioning of existing networks.

In the area of judicial cooperation in criminal matters, there is a need to continue improving the application of instruments implementing the principle of mutual recognition in criminal matters, in particular the European Arrest Warrant, the three Framework Decisions on detention and alternative measures to detention<sup>12</sup>, Framework Decision 2005/214/JHA on financial penalties<sup>13</sup>, Directive 2014/41/EU on the European Investigation Order<sup>14</sup> and Regulation (EU) 2018/1805 on the mutual recognition of freezing orders and confiscation orders<sup>15</sup>. Moreover, there are still many obstacles to the smooth functioning of judicial cooperation procedures under existing Union instruments. The evolving jurisprudence of the Court of Justice of the European Union (CJEU) also has a substantial impact on the functioning of judicial cooperation instruments.

Furthermore, in the digital age and in view of the challenges that came to the fore during the <sup>11</sup> EJN civil is a network of Member States, and each Member State decides who should be appointed to the network. It is composed of contact points designated by the Member States, central bodies and authorities as provided for in the relevant EU legislation or in international instruments, liaison magistrates and any other appropriate judicial or administrative authority with responsibilities for judicial cooperation in civil and commercial matters, and professional associations representing legal practitioners directly involved in the judicial cooperation. National network members are normally the courts, central authorities and representatives of the legal professions (Article 5(2)(a) and (i) of the EJN Council Decision).

COVID-19 pandemic, judicial cooperation needs to make full use of electronic tools and channels to ensure that communication between the competent authorities and relevant actors is effective and secure. As crimes are also increasingly committed by relying on electronic means of communication, it is necessary to ensure better access to electronic evidence in criminal investigations. In 2026 new rules on cross-border access to electronic evidence<sup>16</sup> will enter into force. A dedicated decentralised IT system should be set up to ensure that judicial practitioners and service providers are ready to apply them.

Moreover, following the adoption of the Commission Recommendation on detention<sup>17</sup>, there is a need for follow-up work on various detention-related issues to address the challenges of detention systems such as radicalisation in prisons and alternatives to detention.

Support will also continue to be provided to Member States for setting up and strengthening national networks in the area of judicial cooperation in criminal matters.

In the area of substantive criminal law, in view of the recent adoption of Directive (EU) 2024/1226 on the definition of criminal offences and penalties for the violation of Union restrictive measures<sup>18</sup>, there is a need to ensure that the Member States implement and apply these rules correctly, and support must also be provided to practitioners for this purpose. There is also a need to strengthen the implementation and application of Directive (EU) 2024/1203 on the protection of the environment through criminal law<sup>19</sup>.

Judicial training

Practitioners' knowledge of the relevant Union acquis, the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union (the 'Charter')<sup>20</sup> and other Union instruments, including the process of digitalisation of justice, needs to be improved across the Union. National training providers mainly invest their resources in training courses on national law, meaning there is not enough training on EU law, in particular cross-border training involving participants from different Member States.

The mission letter and the political guidelines of the new Commission both emphasise the importance of improving the implementation of the existing acquis. Similarly, the Council has called for the training of judges and legal practitioners to ensure EU legislation in the field of civil and criminal justice is effectively applied. National courts act as EU courts when applying EU law and the work of judges and justice practitioners involved in the application of EU law is essential in order for the Union area of justice to work smoothly. Training justice practitioners in EU law is therefore vital not only to ensure the correct and uniform application of EU law, but also to promote mutual trust in cross-border judicial proceedings and ensure the respect of the rule of law in the EU. The Justice programme will continue to support high-quality cross-border training projects with EU added value and in line with the new 2025-2030 Judicial Training Strategy, as well as the key role played by the European Judicial Training Network (EJTN). The support provided to judicial training is aimed to align national and EU-judicial training efforts and address common priority training needs identified by justice professionals across the Member States.

For instance, independent and qualified justice professionals have a central role in applying fundamental rights norms in concrete cases. The importance of providing training to justice professionals on the fundamental rights enshrined in the Charter has been acknowledged in the Strategy to strengthen the application of the Charter of Fundamental Rights in the EU<sup>21</sup>. In the area of whistleblower protection, the Commission, in its 2024 report of transposition, underlined whistleblowers must be able to fully understand the extent of their rights and the conditions for protection without running the risk of “falling between the cracks” because of the vagueness or ambiguity of the applicable rules. Training of justice professionals is a key element to effectively implement Directive 2019/1937<sup>22</sup> and to ensure that adequate protection to prevent or remedy retaliation is granted and that whistleblowers have access to the legal remedies provided for under the Directive.

Moreover, support for judicial training should also ensure that justice professionals acquire the necessary digital skills to keep pace with new technological developments, in line with Regulation (EU) 2023/2844<sup>23</sup>. The 2025-2030 Judicial Training Strategy strongly focuses on digitalisation of justice.

A more coordinated training to implement EU-laws, including on digitalisation and digital justice, will empower justice professionals and contribute to a more unified, qualified and efficient European area of justice, beneficial to all citizens, businesses and economic growth.

Access to justice

In the area of criminal justice, further improvements are needed in the implementation and application of the six EU directives in the field of procedural rights of suspects and accused persons, namely: Directive 2010/64/EU on the right to interpretation and translation, Directive 2012/13/EU on the right to information, Directive 2013/48/EU on the right of access to a lawyer Directive (EU) 2016/343 on strengthening certain aspects of the principle on presumption of innocence and the right to be present at the trial, Directive (EU) 2016/800 on procedural safeguards for children and Directive (EU) 2016/1919 on legal aid<sup>24</sup>. There is also a need for better implementation of the 2013 Commission Recommendation on procedural safeguards for vulnerable persons suspected or accused in criminal proceedings<sup>25</sup>. Furthermore, it is crucial to raise awareness of the legislation adopted in this area and to explore possible further developments where gaps or challenges to the acquis have been identified. Such challenges include, among other things, the need to ensure the full application of the procedural rights standards set out in the above-mentioned Union acquis in the context of the digitalisation of criminal proceedings and the use of AI tools.

In the area of victims’ rights, the Commission will adopt in 2026 the next EU Strategy on Victims’ Rights. Among others, it will aim to ensure improved practical application of victim-centred justice systems and improved crime reporting. Moreover, in 2023, the Commission adopted a proposal for the revision of the Victims’ Rights Directive<sup>26</sup>, which is currently under negotiation by the EU co-legislators. It is expected that in 2026 – 2027, Member States will work on the transposition of the revised Directive, with support by the Commission. The Commission will also continue to look into the situation of victims of core international crimes and how they can best be supported, in particular in relation to provision of their access to information, support and protection and will continue working on ensuring support and protection to victims of terrorism. Furthermore, the Commission will pay particular attention to the challenges faced by victims of crime in relation to digitalisation of justice and access to legal remedies. The Commission is also working to prolong the EU campaign on victims' rights<sup>27</sup>. In general, in 2026 and 2027, the Commission will focus on improving the implementation of the EU rules on victims' rights and on raising awareness on the legislation in this area, notably on the Victims' Rights Directive<sup>28</sup>, including its revised text, the Council Directive 2004/80 on compensation<sup>29</sup> and the EU rules on protection orders (Directive 2011/99/EU and Regulation (EU) 606/2013<sup>30</sup>).

In the area of access to justice, it is overall crucial to keep improving how child-friendly criminal justice systems respond to the needs of children in contact with them, in line with the EU Strategy on the rights of the child<sup>31</sup> and the criminal justice related standards set out in the 2024 Commission Recommendation on integrated child protection systems<sup>32</sup>.

The Commission also intends to continue the annual collection of data and information through the EU Justice Scoreboard and to further develop the indicators used.

Work will also continue on digitalisation of justice, with the aim of making justice more efficient and effective. The European e-Justice Portal<sup>33</sup>, which has been in operation since July 2010, is a pertinent example. Since its launch, the portal has been constantly improved by adding new dynamic functionalities (e.g. interconnection of national insolvency registers, tools for finding a lawyer or a notary in the EU, the ECLI search engine for case law, the Competent Court Database, EU access to the Business Registers Interconnection System, etc.). It is important to ensure the proper functioning of the e-Justice Portal and the availability of its content in all EU languages. Implementing the initiatives set out in the forthcoming Commission Strategy on Digitalisation of Justice and in the European e-Justice Strategy (2024-2028) of the Council of the European Union<sup>34</sup> is a general objective for 2026 and 2027. This will be accomplished, among other things, by adding new content and features to and continuing to improve the e-Justice Portal, and by supporting e-Justice projects with a European dimension. e-Justice activities funded under the Justice programme during this period will be complementary to actions financed via the Digital Europe programme (DEP).

DESCRIPTION OF THE ACTIVITIES AND CONTRACTS

In 2026 and 2027, the Commission intends to undertake actions through contracts following public procurement (open calls for tenders and framework contracts). The types of activities funded may include the following: (i) conferences, expert meetings, meetings of committees in support of implementing Union legislative acts, seminars, communication activities; (ii) development and maintenance of IT platforms and systems, creation of platforms to collect and exchange information on the state of digitalisation of justice in Member States and identify needs in the area of artificial intelligence (AI); (iii) activities related to the EU-wide awareness-raising campaign on victims’ rights; (iv) studies and impact assessments in particular to prepare, or accompany, new legislation or respond to policy changes in the area of access to justice (e.g. e-Justice portal, organisation of conferences or other events with the Council Presidencies).

organisation of workshops and policy meetings, on evaluation, impact assessment and related policy support services as well as of policy work on access to justice.

EXPECTED RESULTS

- Increased capacity of national practitioners to address issues related to the rights of victims of crime and to the rights of persons suspected or accused of crime;
- Improved knowledge of the legislation and administrative practices related to specific provisions of the Union acquis regulating the rights of victims of crime and the rights of suspects and accused in criminal proceedings;
- Increased awareness among the relevant policy makers of the rights of victims of crime and the rights of persons suspected or accused of crime;
- Improved awareness of ongoing and future e-Justice activities and contribution to the development of further policy actions;
- Better use of AI by justice professionals.

IMPLEMENTATION

Direct management by DG JUST and, where indicated, by DIGIT or DGT based on a co-delegation. Other co-delegations might also be used, if needed.

If the Commission estimates that some policy actions foreseen under procurement would be better implemented - taking into account the evolution of the policy context - through indirect management, then contribution agreements following a proposal for action, including a request for funding, submitted to the Commission by one of the eligible entities working in the area of judicial cooperation in civil and criminal matters may be concluded in accordance with Title VI 'Indirect management' of the Financial Regulation. This concerns organisations which have been subject to an ex-ante assessment pursuant to Article 157 of the Financial Regulation, including those that are signatories of a framework partnership agreement concluded with the Commission pursuant to Art. 4 of Regulation (EU) 2016/369<sup>42</sup>, or those that are covered by the Financial and Administrative Framework Agreement concluded with the United Nations. Such organisations will have to demonstrate specific technical competence and experience appropriate for the action in the area of judicial cooperation in civil and criminal matters and must have the know-how, qualifications and resources to successfully implement the actions. This capacity will be assessed together with the 'Quality' entrustment requirements, on the basis of the competence and experience of the organisation and their project team, including operational resources (human, technical and other). The proposal for the action and request of funding will be assessed based on the relevance of the action against the objectives of the Programme, the quality of the action and its impact. Examples of organisations that can be selected as implementing entities include, but are not limited to, the Council of Europe, the Organisation for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD), the Organization for Security and Cooperation in Europe (OSCE), the Office for Democratic Institutions and Human Rights (ODIHR), as well as agencies of the United Nations.
